Judge Pergerson Impressed by Conditions in Beaufort County.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Washington, N. C., February 17.—

Judge Fergerson, who is presiding over the February term of Beaufort county Superior Court, now convening in this city, on yesterday morning had the grand jury called in open court, and from the bench told them that in delivering his charge to them Monday morning he had not seen the necessity for a new courthouse, but since that time it had been very forcibly impressed on his mind that the present building was totally inadequate for the purpose, and steps should be taken at once to rectify the present conditions. It is also understood that he told the grand jury it was their duty to indict the county commissioners for neglect of duty in not furnishing a new courthouse, and he charged them to bring in an indictment against them.
